Legislative Library News

New content coming to Library database

The Library is adding more content to its Legislative Reporting in Early Manitoba Newspapers database. A record of the activities of the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba from 1885-1920 will be added to the current collection, which covers 1873-1884.

The Assembly did not publish an official record of their activities until 1958. The 1st Session of the 25th Legislature was the first meeting of the Assembly to have their activities officially recorded as the Debates and Proceedings of the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba.

Prior to this, local newspapers provided daily summaries of Assembly activities and would often include the complete text of speeches or verbal exchanges. While these accounts may not be authoritative, they do provide insight into the work of our early Legislators.

[...] If you love Manitoba (and we know that you do), you'll love Everything

Manitoba. Whether you are a lifelong resident or visiting for the first time, there's no more complete book about Manitoba and no book is more fun!

Braiding sweetgrass : indigenous wisdom, scientific knowledge and the teachings of plants / Robin Wall Kimmerer.

First paperback edition. Minneapolis : Milkweed Editions, 2013. x, 390 pages.

Review from Publishers Weekly Reviews:

With deep compassion and graceful prose, botanist and professor of plant ecology

Kimmerer encourages readers to consider the ways that our lives and language weave through the natural world. A mesmerizing storyteller, she shares legends from her Potawatomi ancestors to illustrate the culture of gratitude in which we all should live. In such a culture, "Everyone knows that gifts will follow the circle of reciprocity and flow back to you again... The grass in the ring is trodden down in a path from gratitude to reciprocity. We dance in a circle, not in a line." Kimmerer recalls the ways that pecans became a symbol of abundance for her ancestors: "Feeding guests around the big table recalls the trees' welcome to our ancestors when they were lonesome and tired and so far from home." She reminds readers that "we are showered every day with gifts, but they are not meant for us to keep... Our work and our joy is to pass along the gift and to trust that what we put into the universe will always come back.

The North-West is our mother : the story of Louis Riel's people, the Métis Nation / Jean Teillet. First edition. Toronto : Patrick Crean Editions, an imprint of HarperCollinsPublishersLtd, 2019. xxii, 566 pages.

From the publisher:

Their story begins in the last decade of the eighteenth century in the Canadian North-West. Within twenty years the Métis proclaimed themselves a nation and won their first battle. Within forty years they were famous throughout North America for their military skills, their nomadic life and their buffalo hunts.

The Métis Nation didn't just drift slowly into the Canadian consciousness in the early 1800s; it burst onto the scene fully formed. The Métis were flamboyant, defiant, loud and definitely not noble savages. They were nomads with a very different way of being in the world—always on the move, very much in the moment, passionate and fierce. They were romantics and visionaries with big dreams. They battled continuously—for recognition, for their lands and for their rights and freedoms. In 1870 and 1885, led by the iconic Louis Riel, they fought back when Canada took their lands. These acts of resistance became defining moments in Canadian history, with implications that reverberate to this day: Western alienation, Indigenous rights and the French/English divide.

After being defeated at the Battle of Batoche in 1885, the Métis lived in hiding for twenty years. But early in the twentieth century, they determined to hide no more and began a long, successful fight back into the Canadian consciousness. The Métis people are now recognized in Canada as a distinct Indigenous nation. Written by the great-grandniece of Louis Riel, this popular and engaging history of “forgotten people” tells the story up to the present era of national reconciliation with Indigenous peoples.

Invisible women : data bias in a world designed for men / Caroline Criado Perez. New York : Abrams Press, 2019. xv, 411 pages.

Review from Kirkus Reviews:

A writer, broadcaster, and feminist activist exposes a global knowledge gap in data pertaining to gender. Criado Perez takes on the challenge of telling the story of the unknown, addressing countless ways in which data about women have been — and continue to be — left out of research that informs everything from daily life to public policy. The author provides an incisive narrative paced more like a novel than a scientific study, offering digestible information with a sharp dose of wit. [...]

Painting a portrait out of negative space—this is "a story about absence—and that sometimes makes it hard to write about"—Criado Perez draws attention to information gaps in fields as diverse as urban planning, tax law, design, medicine, technology, disaster relief efforts, and politics. In focusing on how research has ignored, obscured, or failed to address gender differences, the author offers a balance of statistics, provocative questions, and concise assessments of systemic bias and how to address it. She pinpoints how the personal and the political intersect in these data gaps, providing a lens to interrogate gender-neutral defaults and reveling in examples of how including women (sometimes a single woman) quickly "solves" persistent problems. In clear language, the author builds a strong case for greater inclusion with this thoughtful and surprisingly humorous view of institutional bias and gendered information gaps. While some readers may suggest that equality has arrived and gender no longer matters, this book, which should have wide popular appeal, is a solid corrective to that line of thought.

Speeches that changed Canada / selected and edited by Dennis Gruending. Markham : Fitzhenry & Whiteside, 2018. 270 pages.

From the publisher:

In this new book, former MP Dennis Gruending focuses on speeches by 11 of Canada's finest political orators. This book will be a welcome companion to anyone interested in Canadian history, politics, literature and rhetoric. It will also be a useful source and guide for those who write speeches or deliver them. [...]

The book begins with John A Macdonald's arguing on behalf of Confederation in 1865 and ends with chief Joseph Gosnell's powerful address in support of the Nisga'a treaty in 1998. The book also contains: Louis Riel's speech to the jury; Wilfrid Laurier's warning the Catholic clergy to stay out of politics; Nellie McClung's demand that women receive the vote; Agnes Macphail's call for both political reforms and the full equality of women; Arthur Meighen's divisive speech on military conscription; Richard Bennett's attempt to give Canada a New Deal during the Depression; Tommy Douglas introducing Medicare; Lester Pearson's epic debates with John Diefenbaker over a new flag for Canada, and Pierre Trudeau's "No" to sovereignty association in the 1980 Quebec referendum.
