Manitoba Schools Question pamphlets

The Manitoba Schools Question is a political crisis that started in the early 1890s and resurfaced several times in subsequent decades. The crisis involved public funding of education, minority language rights, and the elimination of religious school systems. The controversy expanded beyond Manitoba's borders, and was one of the key issues in the federal election in 1896.

The Legislative Library's extensive collection of historical pamphlets includes commentaries from prominent voices in Manitoba and across Canada. The pamphlets are in both English and French, from the 1890s to the 1950s.

A list of the pamphlets included in the collection is available through the library's catalogue. Many of these pamphlets are also available electronically, providing easy access to these important documents from Manitoba's past.

Librarian's Picks

Reconciling truths : reimagining public inquiries in Canada /

Kim Stanton. Vancouver : UBC Press, 2022. xii, 325 pages.

From the publisher:

A forthright analysis of the factors that limit the effectiveness of public inquiries. Reconciling Truths traces the contested goals and legacies of public inquiries such as the Truth and Reconciliation Commission and the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls. After generating discussion and recommendations, these formal efforts to name the violence of settler colonialism can fail to directly affect policy change. Kim Stanton provides an in-depth analysis of factors that hamper a commission's ability to achieve its mandate, with practical advice on leadership, process, and how to make future recommendations heard. Acknowledging the risks inherent in their use, Stanton nevertheless contends that inquiries create necessary opportunities to shift public attitudes, a vital first step in the battle for policy change.

My privilege, my responsibility : a memoir / Sheila North.

Winnipeg : Great Plains

Publications, 2021. 202 pages.

From the publisher:

In September 2015, Sheila North was declared the Grand Chief of Manitoba Keewatinowi Okimakanak (MKO), the first woman elected to the position. Known as a "bridge builder," North is a member of Bunibonibee Cree Nation. North's work in advocacy journalism, communications, and economic development harnessed her passion for drawing focus to systemic racism faced by Indigenous women and girls. She is the creator of the widely used hashtag #MMIW. In her memoir, Sheila North shares the stories of the events that shaped her, and the violence that nearly stood in the way of her achieving her dreams. Through perseverance and resilience, she not only survived, she flourished.

[Making the case :
2SLGBTQ+ rights and religion in schools /](#)

Donn Short, Bruce MacDougall, and Paul T. Clarke. Vancouver : Purich Books, 2021. vii, 160 pages.

From the publisher:

A legal guide for navigating the conflict between queer and religious rights in schools.

Too often, the conflict between queer and religious rights in schools is a zero-sum game, but under Canadian law, this need not be. Surveying the relevant legal decisions, Making the Case faces the difficult questions posed by rights-based conflict and offers solutions for administrators who want to protect their LGBTQ2S+ students without seeming to undermine others' religious liberties. This accessible guide is a vital resource in the effort to build inclusive learning environments.

[Federalism in Canada :
contested concepts and uneasy balances /](#)

Thomas O. Hueglin. Toronto : University of Toronto Press, 2021. 367 pages.

From the publisher:

Federalism in Canada tells the turbulent story of shared sovereignty and divided governance from Confederation to the present time with three main objectives in mind. The first objective is to convince readers that federalism is the primary animating force in Canadian politics, and that it is therefore worth engaging with its complex nature and dynamic. The second objective is to bring into closer focus the contested concepts about the meaning and operation of federalism that are at the root of the divide between English Canada and Quebec in particular. The third objective is to give recognition to the trajectory of Canada's Indigenous peoples in the context of Canadian federalism, from years of abusive neglect to belated efforts of inclusion. The book focuses on the constitution with its ambiguous allocation of divided powers, the pivotal role of the courts in balancing these powers, and the political leaders whose interactions oscillate between intergovernmental conflict and cooperation. This focus on executive leadership and judicial supervision is framed by considerations of Canada's regionalized political economy and cultural diversity, giving students a compelling and nuanced view of federalism in Canada.

Women, power, and political representation : Canadian and comparative perspectives

/ edited by Roosmarijn de Geus, Erin Tolley, Elizabeth Goodyear-Grant, and Peter John Loewen. Toronto : University of Toronto Press, 2021. x, 203 pages.

From the publisher:

Delving into the pressing topic of gender and politics, this volume provides fresh comparative perspectives on "what works" to promote women in politics today. Inspiring and informative, Women, Power, and Political Representation offers a comprehensive overview of the role women play in contemporary politics, and pinpoints the reasons behind their underrepresentation.

Discussing the challenges and opportunities women face when running for office, as well as their experiences as political leaders, this book offers a broad and thoughtful overview of the pitfalls encountered by women, from gender biases to sexual harassment, in the notoriously male dominated political arena. Featuring a range of voices that articulate a path towards women's political advancement and equality, Women, Power, and Political Representation is an important and timely resource for scholars, students, and women working professionally in Canadian and international politics.
